MAY CLASH AT LOGAN

Miners' Chief on Way to Try
To Dissuade
Them

By International News Service.
LOGAN, W. Va., Aug. 26—With a fleet of more than a hundred automobiles held in readiness to reinforce the small band of deputy sheriffs who are guarding the mountain passes through which an army of 5,000 union miners proposes to strike at the non-union fields of this district, Logan this morning has completed its plans to block the invasion.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—Federal intervention in the threatening West Virginia situation today awaits upon a report from Brig. Gen. H. H. Bandholtz who was due to arrive in Charleston, W. Va., this morning to make an investigation of conditions on behalf of the President.

The entire West Virginia situation is expected to be had in the Cabinet today, together with any reports that may be forthcoming from Gen. Bandholtz.

Gov. Morgan of West Virginia has painted the situation most seriously and has declared in a telegram requesting federal intervention that the presence of armed bands in West Virginia approximates "armed insurrection." He charges that the armed bands have pillaged and marauded on their marches and that they constitute a serious menace to the people of the state.

Awaiting final decision by the President, which may not come until late today or possibly tomorrow, the War Department has taken steps for immediate action. Major General George Reed at Fort Benjamin Harrison has reported that he is prepared to despatch troops to West Virginia on a moment's notice, that transportation has been provided and that the men are equipped and ready to move.

Announcement here that the Senate Committee investigating conditions in the West Virginia coal fields will visit Mingo County on September 19, was expected to have a salutary effect upon the situation in the disordered state.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26—About 200 United States soldiers from the local barracks left here at 5:30 o'clock this morning in a special train over the Norfolk and Western Railroad enroute to some point near Charleston, W. Va., according to a railroad employee in the Norfolk and Western yards.

The train consisted of four regular passenger coaches.

Officials at the barracks refused to say anything other than all available soldiers here had prepared for movement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—No troops will be sent to West Virginia until orders have been given from Washington, it was announced at the War Department today.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Aug. 26—County officials here are reported to have received an appeal for help from Sheriff Don Chafin, of Logan county, where it was reported miners and sheriffs deputies engaged in a battle late Thursday.

The nature of the appeal for help or any details were not revealed but Sheriff Pinson is said to be quietly preparing for fast work if necessary. Everything apparently is quiet at the office of the Major Thomas Davis, commander of the Mingo militia, and the state police headquarters.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 26—All efforts to confirm reports of a gun battle at Blair, said to have been participated in by three hundred deputy sheriffs and a large force of armed miners have failed early this morning. Signs of activity were reported at the encampment of miners at Indian Creek, near Racine, in Boone county early this morning. Watchers said that all indications pointed to the probability that the marchers were about to break camp and resume their march to Mingo County.

MADISON, W. Va., Aug. 26—C. F. Keeney, of Charleston, President of District No. 17, United Mine Workers of America, left here this morning to head off the invasion of Logan county by 5,000 armed union miners.

Discover Remarkable Resemblance Between the Premiers

Premiers Lloyd George & M. Briand.

These two heads, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand, were examined by an expert phenologist who declared there to be a striking resemblance between the two heads. Their hair, head, eyes, mouth, chin and forehead are almost exactly similar. In fact, the experts said, one might take them for twin brothers. Strangely enough, they are wearing the same style collars and ties.

Bathing Infection Kills Young Langhorne Doctor

Virulent Germ Which Entered His Ear While
He Was Swimming in East River, New York, Ends Promising Career.

Some virulent germ which probably entered his ear while he was bathing in the East River, New York City, killed Dr. Joseph Irving Heritage, a young physician whose home is in Langhorne. Dr. Heritage, who was 22 years of age, died yesterday in the Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, from an acute infection of the ear.

Only last June, the promising young doctor graduated from the Hahnemann Medical College, and attending him at his bedside when he died were some of his classmates who are internes in the hospital.

Dr. Heritage was born in Langhorne and was the son of the late Dr. Joseph B. Heritage, for many years a practitioner in that town, and Ida Marple Heritage. The young physician made his home, when in Langhorne, with his widowed mother.

Since his graduation, last June, Dr. Heritage has been an interne in the Metropolitan Hospital, a city institution, on Blackwell's Island, New York City. His term of service as interne would have ended shortly and his intention was to enter active practice somewhere. Whether this would be in Langhorne or elsewhere, he had not decided. His uncle, Dr. Charles Heritage, a well known physician of Jenkintown, Pa., is understood to have been solicited to have his young relative assist him for a time after his interne term ended.

During the war young Dr. Heritage served with the Hahnemann Hospital, a Philadelphia Medical Unit. He was a member of Soby Post, American Legion, of Langhorne.

In company with other physicians and internes in the Blackwell's Island institution, it has been Dr. Heritage's habit to bathe in the Hudson River nearby. After one of these baths, he complained of what he thought was water lodged in his ear. Attention was given him at the hospital, but the supposed earache was not alleviated to any extent.

Inflammation set in and Dr. Heritage was compelled to undergo hospital treatment at the Blackwell's Island institution for a week. He returned to his mother's home in Langhorne several weeks ago, where he was given treatment by Drs. Henry Lovett and S. L. Ridge.

The inflammation of the ear became so acute, however, that Dr. Heritage decided to go to the Hahnemann Hospital, for more intensive treatment. His condition grew rapidly worse. Spinal Meningitis developed, and, before an operation could be performed he died yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Heritage was one of the most prominent young men in Langhorne, where he had spent practically all his life. He was a graduate of the Langhorne High School and the Jenkintown High School. He was a member of the Methodist Church in Langhorne, and active socially. He was Scoutmaster of a Langhorne troop of Boy Scouts.

A short time ago, his engagement to Miss Alice Smith, of a prominent Morrisville family, was announced, and their marriage is understood to have been planned to occur as soon as Dr. Heritage established himself in active practice.

The funeral will be held at his mother's home on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The services will be conducted by the Rev. T. W. Scott, pastor of the Langhorne M. E. Church. Interment will be in Beechwood Cemetery, Hulmeville.

Besides his mother, Dr. Heritage's surviving immediate relatives are his sister, Miss Florence M. Heritage, who is an instructor in physical culture at DePaul University, Newcastle, Indiana, and a brother, Charles Heritage, who lives in Des Moines, Iowa.

Dirigible Body Too Far in Mud For the Inquiry

Heavy Crane Arrives But Salvaging of Wreck is Doubtful

FIND NO MORE BODIES

Airship Gondolas, Which May Contain Victims, Not Located

By International News Service.
HULL, England, Aug. 26—A hundred ton floating Admiralty crane arrived here today to attempt to lift the wrecked body of the dirigible ZR-2 at low tide. The wreckage was so deeply imbedded in the mud and sand at the bottom of the Humber river that little hope was entertained that any of it could be salvaged. No more bodies have been recovered and hope was fast dwindling this afternoon that any of the 38 missing British and American air sailors would ever be found.

Police and British navy men patrolled the Humber about the scene of the ill-fated ZR-2 all night long.

Work of exploring the debris was renewed this morning. A considerable amount of material was found some distance from the main body of the wreck.

Divers reported that the metal parts of the air ship were almost completely covered with silt which had been washed up over it by the strong tide. The bodies that are believed to be underneath the wreckage are now buried many feet under mud and sand.

General Popham, who is a member of the air ministry's board of inquiry was notified that the rear part of the airship had sunk deep into the sand, but apparently there were no gondolas attached to it. The front part of the ship which is 18 feet under water had, up to early this afternoon resisted all attempts to remove it.

Commander Dyed, an expert on aeronautical construction, has been named to represent the Navy at the investigation.

The board of inquiry will not sit until there has been a complete examination of the wreckage. The investigating officials began taking testimony yesterday morning and continued this work today.

De Valera Is Re-Elected; Collins Plans U. S. Loan

BY DANIEL O'CONNELL
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
DUBLIN, Aug. 26—Eamonn De Valera was today unanimously re-elected President of the Irish Republic by Dail Eireann (The Sinn Fein Parliament). He was nominated by Commandant John MacKeown, of the Irish Republican Army, a member of Dail Eireann.

"No Irish leader has ever equalled De Valera," said MacKeown in his nominating speech. "He met the English as a soldier and beat them. He is now meeting them as a statesman and will beat them there. He has done more for Irish freedom than all the previous leaders."

P. O. S. OF A. TO Care For Monument
At the State Camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, which is being held at Lancaster this week, a campaign was launched to have the Bucks county camps care for the monument at Washington Crossing on the Delaware. Alleged neglect of the state to care for the monument was condemned.

Dr. Scott, the head of the highly successful Coryell's Ferry Chautauqua for ten years past, the "dean" of the local medical fraternity, long an active member of the Solebury Farmers' Club, valued member, and offline preacher, in the local Presbyterian Church, former chief Burgess of the borough of New Hope, and an enthusiast along many other lines of local endeavor, will be widely missed.

The Scotts have resided in this borough about thirty years, but have for some time contemplated removing to Altoona, where their only child, Mrs. Charles Kurtz, lives with her husband and family. Their homestead on Bridges street will probably be sold, as the venerable doctor does not expect to return here, except for social visits, which he promises his friends will be many. He enjoyed a large practice on both sides of the Delaware river.

Deputy county treasurer, William H. Murphy will be at the pool room of Coleman & Harkins, Mill street, on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock to issue gunner's licenses.

Mr. Murphy urges all applicants for gunner's licenses to be on hand at that time. If it is inconvenient for them to be there in person, they may leave their applications at the pool room.

Will Revive "Mrs. Jarley" At Harriman Entertainment

Some of the children and elder folk of Harriman have been practicing posing, in preparation for their appearance in a revival of the old-fashioned entertainment, "Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works." The revival will occur tomorrow evening, in the auditorium of the Harriman School. There will be other old-time entertainment features, the "wax works" being but a part of an "Old Fashioned Concert," such as our elders used to delight in.

The entertainment is being given under the direction of Mrs. John Warren Tucker and under the auspices of the Peoples Church Sunday School, of the townsie village. Besides rehearsing her troupe of players in Dickens' famous burlesque, Mrs. Tucker has been drilling them in rendering old time songs, old time music and old time recitations.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the benefit of the Sunday School.

Homing Pigeons to Start a Race Here

Big Flock to be Liberated on Flight to New Rochelle

COME HERE BY EXPRESS

Several hundred homing pigeons are expected to arrive here in crates tomorrow morning to be liberated at the Bristol Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in a race to New Rochelle, New York.

Agent Van Kirk, of the local office of the American Railway Express Company, has been advised by the pigeon fanciers of the expected shipment and will do the liberating. The pigeons will be in a number of large crates.

Mr. Van Kirk, who has discharged the office of "starter" in pigeon contests on numerous occasions, will first give the birds water, immediately on receipt, allow them a half hour or so for rest from their trip and then open the crates and let the birds fly away.

He will take the wind direction, note the weather conditions and the time of liberation, and wire that information to the officials of the United Homing Pigeon Concours, at New Rochelle, N. Y.

The pigeons will circle a moment or so, to get their bearings, and then head straight for New Rochelle. They are never fed at the starting point of their flight, because hunger is one of the instincts which leads them to their home loft.

The starter is also supposed to be guided by the weather and other conditions. Mr. Van Kirk, who liberated a flock today, said that one of his duties as starter was to watch that no other homing flocks were being liberated at the same time.

"Not long ago, I liberated a flock and about fifteen minutes later a large motor truck drove up and stopped in front of the post office. It was loaded with crates of homing pigeons which were liberated by the truckmen. If I had not liberated my pigeons well in advance, I would have held them until the truck-load flock was well out of sight, for often a smaller flock of homing pigeons will get mixed with a larger flight and seek the loft of their new companions.

"I am also expected to watch for storms. A short time ago I received a flock on Saturday morning. Before I had liberated them, I received a wire from New Rochelle, saying that a heavy storm was raging over Long Island Sound and to hold the pigeons until Sunday morning, which I did."

The "grand old man" is still strong enough to walk briskly without the use of a cane, and he reads newspapers without eyeglasses. Furthermore, he is an active chairman of the board of trustees of the U. S. Trust Company.

Superintendent S. K. Faust
Announces Arrangements
And Personnel

ENROLLMENT RULES

Plans For New Croydon
School—New Manual
Training Teacher

Plans for the reopening of the public schools of Bristol Township have been completed and today Superintendent S. K. Faust announces the plans to be followed for pupils desiring to enter all schools in Bristol Township which come under his supervision.

The public schools of Bristol Township will open the 1921-22 term on Tuesday, September 6. The following is a list of teachers for the respective buildings and grades:—

HARRIMAN SCHOOL
Kindergarten, Jean C. Eckels, Conneautville, Pa.; 1 A, Clara King, Bristol; 1 B, Mabert Spangler, York Springs, Pa.; 2 A, Nora Stoner, Hellam, Pa.; 2 B, Joyce Wisler, Bristol, R. F. D.; 3 A, Ruth Updyke, Bristol; 3 B, Helen Hays, Langhorne; 4 and Supervision, Lucy M. Kirst, Fredericksburg, Pa.; 5th, Katherine Beck, Bristol, R. F. D.; 6th, Mrs. Robt. J. Graham, Harriman.

Departmental & High School
Manual Training and Music, Floyd Hart, Needmore, Pa.; History & Civics, Sara McCrear, Newville, Pa.; Mathematics and Latin, Dorothy L. Shive, Doylestown; Science, Cedelia Snyder, Cornwells; English and Literature, Ida V. Blackburn, Lanerch; Commercial, Opal Abrams, Cockranville, Pa.; Penmanship and Handwork, Ethel M. Jordan, Brookville, Pa.; Teacher-clerk, Mrs. H. H. Feakes, Edgely.

Edgely School
1 and 2, Dorothy R. Faust, Newtown; 3 and 4, Anna Keller, Wrightsville, Pa.

Emilie School
1 to 8 inclusive, Elsie Ettinger, Bristol, R. F. D.

Laurel Bend School
1 to 6 inclusive, William H. Bown, Bristol.

Croydon School
Olivia M. Highland, Bristol; Mrs. Ethel M. Hogeland, Andalusia; Caroline Black, Newportville; Head Teacher, L. Gertrude Finney, Ivyland.

Beginners—pupils who will be six years of age on or before November 1, 1921, will be admitted during the first two weeks of the term. It is very important that these little folks be started to school on the first day, as children suffer handicap through absence at the opening sessions.

All pupils not previously enrolled in the schools of Bristol township must produce evidence of age. New pupils in the District, who have attended school elsewhere should present report cards. That will assist in placing the pupils where they rightfully belong.

No pupils not vaccinated will be admitted. A vaccination certificate must accompany the child who comes to be enrolled in the Township schools.

The compulsory attendance law will also be strictly enforced. The authorities hope they will not find it necessary to cause arrests in the enforcement of the Compulsory Attendance Laws, as was the case last term. Fourteen arrests were made last term and as many parents were convicted and fined.

The Superintendent, in outlining plans is treating each school as a separate unit for the benefit of the parents residing in each particular section.

The Kindergarten Department will be closed for a short period of time, pending selection of a successor to Miss Jean Cameron Eckels, who has been obliged to resign on account of the illness of her father. Mr. Faust assures the parents of prospective kindergartners that the department will be reopened just as soon as he is able to fill the vacancy.

Miss Mabert Spangler of York Springs, and Miss Clara King of Bristol, will each have charge of a first grade. Miss King is well and favorably known in Bristol Township as a primary teacher and Miss Spangler, who is a graduate of Shippensburg Normal School, comes very highly recommended.

Miss Nora Stoner of Hellam, Pa., and Miss Joyce Wisler, of Bristol, R. F. D., both of whom have done excellent work in the second grades during last term, will again have charge of the second grades.

Miss Ruth Updyke, of Bristol, and Miss Helen Hays of Langhorne will each have charge of a third grade. Both Miss Updyke and Miss Hays have been successful in school work in other districts.

Miss Lucy M. Kirst, of Fredericksburg, will return to teach the fourth grade and in connection therewith will assist the superintendent as superintendent of the fourth grade.

FORD AND HARRIMAN

When the late E. H. Harriman, financial and construction genius of railroad transportation, was supreme in his position and planned a great consolidation of carriers, he predicted that the lines and equipment would have to be built according to new ideas. Freight cars would be constructed much greater in size, and rails would be heavier and bridges and tunnels higher and wider. His revolutionary dreams presaged complete reconstruction of the principal systems.

The opposite view is taken by Henry Ford, who lately bought the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad. Mr. Ford has had but a brief experience in railroad transportation, and says that he knows nothing about it, yet he insists that, as a shipper of freight, he is aware of its deficiencies. He will strive to develop railroad transportation by investigation, observation, experience and experimentation, and will not be swayed by tradition or custom.

Mr. Ford holds that better efficiency can be secured with smaller and lighter locomotive power and smaller and lighter freight cars. He will substitute the wireless telephone for the telegraph for train dispatching. Service will be more frequent and more satisfactory with these changes, and damage, waste and accidents will be reduced.

Much greater significance attaches to these thoughts of Mr. Ford's than to any of the much-heralded changes which he has effected on his short line. As a matter of fact, most of the changes and improvements which Mr. Ford has made, and which are widely commended, would not be adaptable to a big railroad, and many of them could not be adopted on short lines, as most short lines have small tonnage and revenue, whereas the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton got sufficient tonnage from the Ford Motor Company to produce adequate revenue.

The same observations advanced by Mr. Ford regarding smaller locomotives are made by highway and industrial engineers as to motor trucks. No road can be constructed, they maintain, which could stand up long under the crushing weight of traffic, and they insist that the combined weight of trucks and loads must be restricted. If this happens, trucks will operate in trains, so as to spread the burden over a greater road surface.

It seems to be certain that the era of smaller and lighter locomotives and cars, with novel equipment, such as the new type of container-car, is at hand. Heavy locomotives and cars ruin the rails. Freight movement will be speeded with smaller cars, and the cars will be loaded quickly and freight will get under headway faster and will move speedier. Lighter locomotives and cars probably will be factors, too, in handling freight expeditiously on terminals, where the worst troubles and delays are confronted.

NEW THEORIES

Differing views among scientists as to telepathy are being emphasized by recent statements that, as believers in the transfer of thought or ideas have not proved their case, the fact of telepathy cannot be accepted. Heretofore, leading psychologists and alienists have taken it practically for granted that there is such a thing as telepathy, and they have assumed it to have been demonstrated that, under certain states of mental or physical agitation or repose, the subjective mind in thousands of cases, has taken impressions from without, and regardless of distance.

A prominent scientist now illustrates that most of the cases of telepathy which have come under his observation, and under the observation of other investigators, have been simple instances of automatic or intuitive habit, of instinct, or association of ideas. For example, he says, when two persons are conversing, and one suddenly feels conscious that somebody behind him is staring at him, and looks around and notes eyes peering at him, it was not telepathy which warned or informed him. Tests have indicated, he says, that the person who imagined that he had received a telepathic message really had involuntarily and instinctively caught a look or gesture from his companion.

The scientist takes the position that the proof that telepathy is a fact rests with its proponents. Apparently, he does not deny the fact, but wants conclusive proof.

The difficulties in the way of proving telepathy are, in particular, the seeming impossibility of wilfully controlling thought transference and the use of it by magicians and performers for illusion, delusion and entertainment. Even those who most positively assert the fact of telepathy cannot demonstrate it at will. All that they can do is to give amazing examples, declare the fact, and adduce presumptive scientific theories.

That there is such a thing as telepathy is probably true. Neurologists are inclined to credit it, as they have had so many strange cases, in their experience, which could be attributed to nothing else. The cases of telepathy are, however, the result of peculiar state of mind, both with the sender and receiver of thought messages, ideas or sensations; evidently a positive condition of the objective mind operating, inexplicably and marvelously, on the subjective mind in a negative state.

The casement of the mind and the soul is material, but the intellect and the spirit are immaterial, and the workings of the inner being are baffling to science even under ordinary conditions. If telepathy is a fact, as it appears to be, how prove or explain it?

THE TRAVELLER BY RAIL

The summer season leads a multitude of people to travel around from place to place, but not everyone seems to enjoy his experiences on the rail. Many persons seem to feel that a journey is a tedious and uncomfortable experience. They grumble at dust and poor ventilation and heat and cramped positions, and other familiar irritations.

Many of these people fortify themselves for the rigors of a journey, by buying illustrated magazines and trashy stories, with which to spend their entire time, regardless of the panorama spread before their eyes by the moving train.

Other people are so interested by unfamiliar sights that discomforts are minimized. They are not anxious to reach their journey's end. Like one cheerful lady, they may even dislike to travel on express trains, since the latter whisk you along so fast through towns that you get no chance to see how people live and what places look like. They are glad to linger a little longer along the route, and find the time pleasantly spent in viewing the operations of agriculture or the development of industries.

The persons interested in civic progress will see public improvements in the communities through which he passes. Business men secure glimpses of other people's methods, and get suggestions as to where goods can be bought and sold. Farmers will see how other people handle their crops. People get an idea of the resources and opportunities of the sections through which they pass.

"Where is your sister?" he asked. "Down there by the gate," Alix answered. "They're gazing soulfully into each other's eyes, and all that! Peter went home. But Cherry—with a bang! Isn't that the ultimate extension of the limit! I'm crazy about it—I think it's great. I love weddings! This'll be the third I've been to!"

"All this seems to have come up very suddenly," the doctor said, dazedly, rumpling his gray hair with a fine old hand. "I don't imagine your sister is taking it as seriously as you and Anne seem inclined to—"

"Oh, does Anne think so?" Alix exclaimed.

"I think Cherry is one of the fortunate girls destined to drift along the surface of life," Anne said, "and to accept wifehood quite simply. I only wish I were that type—"

She was interrupted by Cherry herself. The girl came to the porch door, and as she hesitated there a minute, with her smiling eyes seeking her father's.

"Dad!" said Cherry, "I've brought Martin to supper."

There's face, they saw that by one firm, small hand she drew her lover beside her. Martin Lloyd's smiling face showed above hers in the lamplight. "Dad!" said Cherry, with a childish breath. "Dad! I've brought Martin to supper!"

CHAPTER III.

The three at the table did not move for perhaps twenty slow seconds. Dr. Strickland, who had pushed back his chair, and whose hands were resting on the table before him, stared at them steadily. Anne, with a quick little hiss of surprise, smiled faintly. Alix, the unstilted, widened her eyes, and opened her mouth in unaffected astonishment. For there was no mistaking Cherry's tone.

"Doctor," said Martin, coming in "this little girl of yours and I have something to tell you!"

The old man looked at him sharply and almost sternly, looked about at the girls' faces, and was silent.

"Are you surprised, Daddy?" Cherry laughed, with all a child's innocent exultation. The next instant Anne and Martin were shaking hands, and Alix had enveloped Cherry in an enthusiastic embrace.

"Surprised!" exclaimed Alix. "Why, aren't you surprised yourself?"

Her sister flushed exquisitely, and Martin laughed.

"We're just about knocked silly," he confessed, and all the girls laughed joyously.

A place was made for Martin, and biscuits and omelet and honey and tea were put into brisk circulation. Cherry took her chair, all dimples, flushes, smiles, and shy confidence.

"And what are your plans?" Anne asked maternally.

Her uncle, who had been silent, during the excitement, mildly interposed: "I think we needn't go too fast, young people! You've only known each other a few weeks, after all; you must be pretty sure of yourselves before taking anything like a decisive step. Plenty of time—plenty of time. Mr. Lloyd here and I must have some talks about his plans—"

THEATRES

New Colonial Theatre

One girl's determination to win love, no matter what the cost of the obstacles in the way, is the interesting theme of "The Flame," the Stoll film production which will be shown at the New Colonial Theatre tonight. The picture has many things to recommend it, one of the features being the fact that scenes in it were taken in four foreign countries—England, France, Italy and Russia.

"The Flame," is an intensely dramatic story, brilliantly acted by a large cast. Even the little parts, of which there are many, are perfectly done, and help create real "atmosphere." The outdoor photography of famous places in Europe is good, and it is a welcome change to have the settings in Florence, for example, showing the real city, with real inhabitants, instead of Los Angeles and "super" Florentines.

The story is told with much human appeal, and with delightful touches of humor jostling serious moments in the various episodes. Iris Lunan as the blind Toni, who, with her brother, is rescued from the gutter by her kind uncle, Sir Charles, gives a wonderful natural and sympathetic performance.

Evelyn Boucher, as Toni grown to womanhood, carries the emotional role along at a splendid pace. Reginald Fox, Fred A. Thatcher, Roland Myles, Ernest Mauphin, M. Win Lenders and Dora De Winton are a few of those who give distinguished support to the young star.

The story is too full of interesting detail to be told in full, but it is, in brief, the chronicle of Toni from the time she enters the blighting sphere of snobbish high society, to the moment when she at last meets true love.

Forrest Theatre

"Don't Neglect Your Wife!" the Goldwyn picture which will be shown at the Forrest Theatre for the last time in Bristol is the first story written directly for the screen by one of America's greatest living women writers, Gertrude Atherton. As in her books, so in this photoplay, Mrs. Atherton gives us the problems of a beautiful, young married woman who has been disillusioned in her husband and has found herself caring for a distinguished editor. The domestic triangle is solved in a very plausible manner, but with a dramatic intensity impossible to attain when the characters involved are the usual flappers one sees too often on the screen.

After all, the mature woman, with her ability to cope with life is a far more interesting screen subject than a girl whose sole appeal lies in her prettiness. But in Mrs. Atherton's story the wife happens to be the beautiful Mabel Jullienne Scott; the husband, that excellent actor, Charles Cary; and the other man, Lewis S. Stone; all three of whom give sterling performances which make the story take on the semblance of flesh and blood.

The action of "Don't Neglect Your Wife" takes place in San Francisco and the old Five Points section of New York. The picture was mounted gorgeously by Goldwyn and directed splendidly by Wallace Worsley.

OBSERVATIONS

In spite of the shortage of teachers, the pretty girls have found lots of instructors willing to give them swimming lessons at the summer resorts.

Many people who blame the newspapers for printing silly personal gossip, will find fault because they are never mentioned.

The people who are trying to overthrow the governments of the world, are not the same ones who overthrow the German trenches during the war.

A lot of folks that bitterly complain of popular ignorance, kick like thunder if the school appropriation is increased.

While some people are all the time growling about the cost of living, others watch the advertisements in the Courier and succeed in dodging a good deal of it.

Some of these two weeks courtships are often followed by two year divorce suits.

Trenton Fair Promises Eclipse All Its Records

TRENTON, N. J. Aug. 26—From the standpoint of sensations and new features, the 1921 Trenton Fair, beginning Monday, September 26, will eclipse all previous records, according to Colonel Mahlon R. Margerum, the Secretary. Nothing has been left unattempted to make for a record-shattering exposition.

Perhaps the chief sensation this year will be Ruth Law and her "Circus in the Skies". Just what this will disclose may be realized from the title of the feature. Miss Law will perform all sorts of daring feats thousands of feet above terra firma. She will transfer from one plane to another and do a double loop while standing on the top of the craft. Louis James one of her dare-devil associates, will make a flying leap from an automobile going sixty miles an hour to a plane which will be speeding at the same rate.

Another rare attraction is promised in May Wirth and Her Family in an equestrian act which has hitherto been seen with only the principal circus and in the Old World. Miss Wirth is an equestrienne whose reputation has achieved international fame. She is assisted by her entire family of five others, including a brother-comedian whose chief aim is to tickle the risibilities.

Sensational Auto Polo contests, to be played daily in front of the stand, will be a third feature. The speed program, comprising trotting, pacing and running races will introduce the fastest horses ever seen on the Trenton Fair track, increased purses attracting the speedier steeds from all sections. The Automobile Races are also promised as outdistancing all past exhibitions of this kind. The bathing girls, aerialists, comedians, clowns, trained seals, musicians, acrobats, equilibrists, tumblers, wire-walkers, etc., will make up a free vaudeville show, to be given daily in front of the grandstand.

The educational features of the Fair have been advanced to a point which, it is believed will not fail of appreciation. An exceptional exhibit will be that of the Boys' and Girls' Club Work program, participated in by hundreds of young folks from all parts of New Jersey. And the new state exhibition building will afford all kinds of displays demonstrative of the work accomplished by New Jersey during the last year. The 1921 Fair will introduce the new state structure for the first time, the work of erection as authorized by act of the legislature now nearing completion.

The Poultry Show, presented in an enlarged building; live-stock exhibit, with its cattle, sheep and swine; and the displays in the agricultural, art and ladies fancy work and home and dairy products departments will be offered to greater advantage than ever. Premiums aggregating $100,000 have been proffered for the most meritorious exhibits.

It is promised that the midway will be merrier, livelier and peppier than ever before. Attractions which cannot be transported in less than 50 railroad cars will be erected in charge of the Greater Wortham Shows. Attraction features on the midway will include Rosa and Josefa Blazek, the

Pershing Reviews First New England Citizen Camp

General Pershing

America's greatest leader of soldiers inspected and reviewed 1,200 young men of the first New England citizens' training camp at Devens. The commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Force declared that no camp in the country had made a better showing than Camp Devens. The photograph shows General Pershing in a striking attitude, while addressing the men in the camp.

Bohemian Twins and the 11 year old son of one of them. These human curiosities are two women fully developed and joined together at the spine a baffling mystery to medical science. Another attraction will be Jan Van Albert, the Dutch giant, standing 9 feet 5 inches, and the Japanese prince only 33 inches in height.

Excursion rates will be announced by the Pennsylvania Railroad and Philadelphia & Reading Railway running from all main points of the East.

Pershing "Whole Cheese" At The Dufour Shows

WASHINGTON D. C. Aug 26—General Pershing was the "only living one" at the carnival and circus given by the Big Lew Dufour Shows on the plaza east of the Union station. For once the twenty-seven side shows and many rides of the big carnival company were not the "whole cheese" for General Pershing was the chief attraction.

The fact that he had a crowd of several hundred following him in and out of every show did not prevent the General from becoming a "kid" again. Pershing did not miss one of the twenty-seven and he was constantly delving into a bag of peanuts.

Pink lemonade was the first purchase made by the General, after an enthusiastic welcome by over five thousand people. From eight o'clock until ten the famous General paraded all over the show grounds.

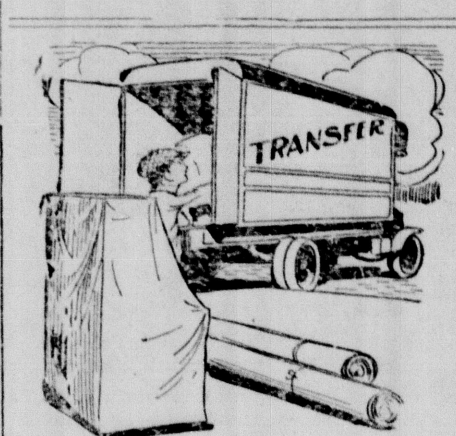

The House of Hillier, where the "mysteries of the occult" are displayed occupied Pershing's attention for some time. For once "the only living ones" at the side shows gazed upon another "only living one" in the person of Pershing.

The carnival is one of the few traveling shows that have been permitted to spread their canvas in the center of the Capitol and it is a great tribute to Lew Dufour and Col. John L. Fehr that they were permitted to place their encampment opposite the Union station. The appearance of General Pershing was all that was needed to make the show one of the most talked of in the East. Mr. Dufour is well known in the show business and he has built up a wonderful reputation with his clean shows, attractive rides and high class concessions. Every concession man who travels with Dufour knows that he must give an honest deal and every show must be clean and attractive or they cannot remain with the company.

The Burlington County Fair officials must be congratulated upon their selection of this great aggregation for the Great Mount Holly Fair, for when the fair opens, Dufour and his "big tops" will occupy the new midway and they will remain for the week.

As a new feature this year, the first night of the fair will be Free Night and the gates will be wide open for amusement lovers to enjoy the dancing, vaudeville and the brilliantly lighted midway.

The show will be repeated Wednesday and Thursday evenings with many new and especial features, new

McGerr Let Team Get Some Fielding

Game Under Control, Third Ward Twirler Eased Up On First Ward

PIERSON SOON RETIRED

BY FRANCIS G. ELLIS
The Third Ward team easily defeated the First Ward last night on the Sullivan diamond, 16-3.
Pierson was taken from the mound before the end of the first inning, Jones relieving him. Realizing that the game was won, W. McGerr eased up on the first warders, with the result that the team behind him pulled off some clever fielding.
Hibbs pulled down a fly from Valentine's bat which was easily the fielding feature, as "Chippie's" hit was labeled a home run.

North Phillies Play Bridesburg Here Sunday

The North Phillies Baseball team recognized as one of the best teams in Philadelphia will visit Harriman on Sunday to take on the fast Bridesburg nine.
The North Phillies team has a wonderful record this season and are coming here with the get idea of trimming Bridesburg. The latter team however will have the best possible team and expects to put it all over their Philly opponents. The game will start promptly at 3.15 and it should be a rattling good battle.

Colored Team Forfeited After Protesting Pitcher

The Colored Community Club left the grounds in the third inning of the game with the Fifth Ward team last evening on the Victory Hotel grounds, Harriman, because of dissatisfaction with Pitcher Yoder of the Fifth Ward. The score then stood 4-0 against the colored team.

Manager Wilhite, of the Community Club, claimed that the 5th Ward Pitcher was trying to disable his men which Yoder denied. Manager Mulholland, of the 5th Ward team, offered however to take Yoder out of the box and substitute another of his pitching staff, outfielder Burns, but Wilhite would not agree and insisted on taking his team off the diamond.

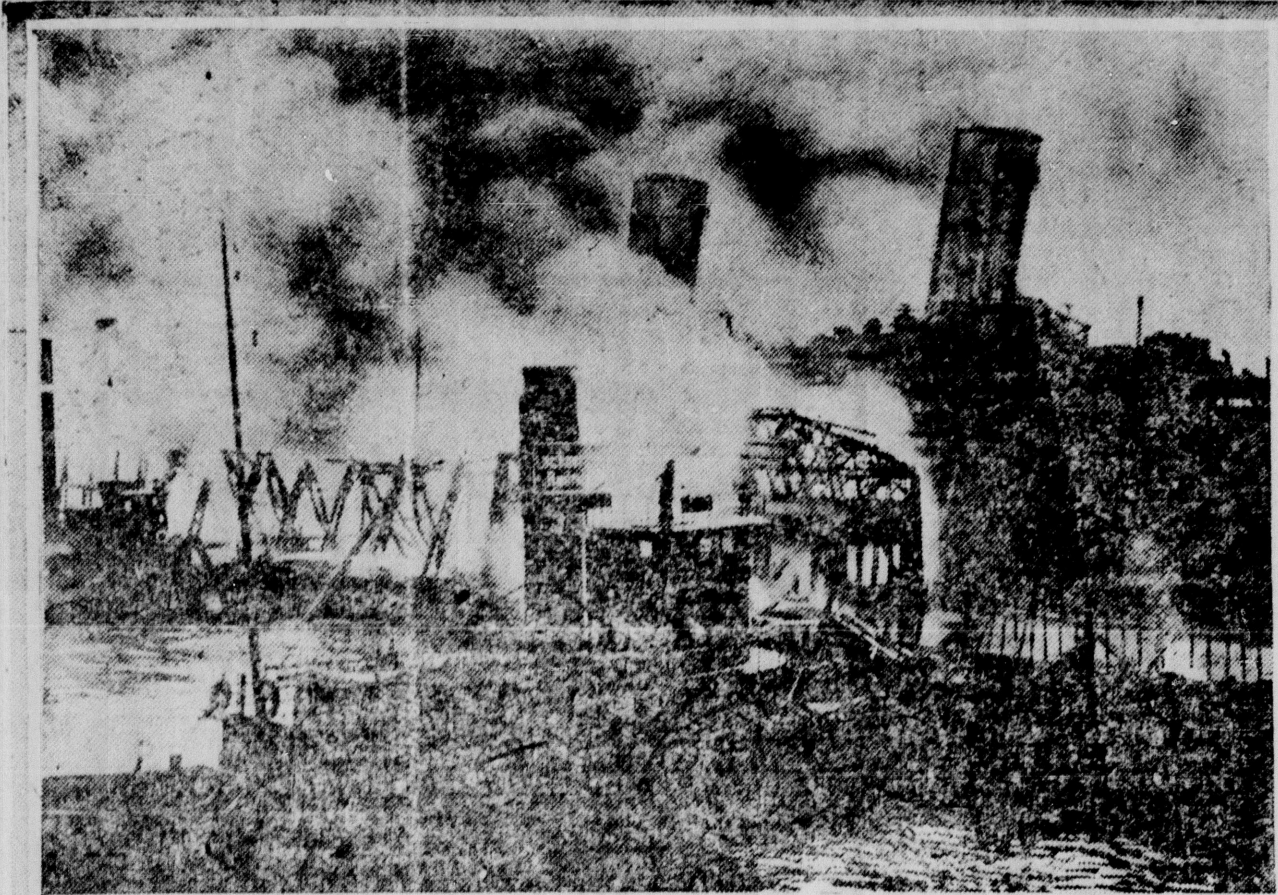

The Fifth Ward team had several new men in its line-up last evening, namely, Hellings, Saxton Britton, Dan McDevitt and Yoder.

Fire Threatens Leviathan With Destruction

The S. S. Leviathan, the largest liner afloat, and formerly the German liner Vaterland, caught fire in the blaze which swept the Hoboken Army Piers on the night of August 24. For a time it was thought the Leviathan would be destroyed by the flames, but the work of the land and water firemen checked the path of the flames, and the titanic greyhound of the sea was drawn into mid-stream. The Army transports Wheaton and Western Queen were ablaze also, with their freight of soldier dead. The latter two transports were drawn into mid-stream also, and the fires were extinguished while they were out in the stream. No lives were lost, and all the soldier dead were untouched by the flames. The damage to Hoboken piers will mount, it is said, to many millions of dollars.
